

LOCAL MOTOR CLUB DOING FINE WORK

Many Tourists Stop at Headquarters to Inquire About Road Conditions Near City.

EVERY COURTESY EXTENDED

Visitors Show Appreciation of The Service Arranged Here—Exchange of Information.

The Jackson County Motor Club which has established headquarters at the store of its secretary, W. L. Federmann, West Second street, is doing a service that is much appreciated by tourists. Recently the club of which T. S. Blish is president, decided to arrange headquarters where tourists might call to inquire about road conditions. Mr. Federmann keeps a register of all tourists and obtains from them information about the roads over which they have driven. The tourists are always anxious to give such information for this way an exchange of data is made possible.

Every day a number of tourists call at Federmann's and ask about roads out of the city. The Indianapolis Motor Club directs motorists to the local headquarters and informs them that they will receive further directions here. The St. Louis Motor Club in a communication to the local organization stated that it is directing inquirers about roads east of St. Louis to this city. Tourists appreciate the service that is given them here and many compliments have been passed upon the new program of the Motor Club.

Local people have inquired about the best road between Seymour and Louisville. A Seymour man who has just made the trip has furnished the following data to the Motor Club which desires it be made public:

"Road from Seymour through Dudleytown to forks of road is in good condition; not so good from there to the turn east which road is very bad including streets of Crothersville and on east to Slate Ford Bridge.

"The Highway Commission truck and scraper were on this road beyond the Slate Ford bridge which should improve conditions. The north and south road all the way to Scottsburg is in poor condition.

"South of Scottsburg the road is in better condition though bumpy practically all the way to New Albany. Part of the road beyond Vienna had been dragged on Friday which improved conditions very much and the truck and drag were at work farther down. With continued work and better weather this road from Vienna to Sellersburg ought to be in fair condition a little later on.

"The road from Sellersburg to New Albany is an old worn out macadamized road, hard, though bumpy. The worst stretches of road are before and after leaving Crothersville with but little improvement before reaching Scottsburg.

"Return trip via Salem on Sunday May 23, 1920.

"New Albany to Bennettsville good gravel road about 10 miles; dirt road from there which gets worst the longer you stay with it to Pekin about 13 miles; very bad between Borden and Pekin, with numerous fords. Fair rock road from Pekin to Salem; more or less bumpy Salem to Millport. Badly washed places on Millport Hill road now being repaired by Highway Commission. Jackson County roads much better with some rough spots between Brownstown and Seymour.

"Prefer going the Scottsburg route rather than via Salem as it is much shorter and less miles, of very poor roads. If the lowland roads around Crothersville can be improved and the remainder of the roads continually worked the entire road ought to be in fair to good condition before mid-summer."

CLASS PLAY GIVEN BEFORE BIG CROWD

"Stop Thief" Presented in a Highly Commendable Manner by Group of 1920 Graduates.

CAST SHOWS MUCH ABILITY

Various Characters in Plot Which Develops Humorous Situations Are Ably Portrayed.

"Stop Thief," a play with a humorous plot, was presented in a highly creditable manner by a group of Seniors of the Shields High School before a large audience at the Majestic Theater Monday night. The members of the cast showed marked ability in the portrayal of the various characters and the different acts developed with a smoothness that is seldom seen in amateur productions. The audience was manifestly pleased with the play and the cast received a full measure of well deserved praise.

"Stop Thief" was the first of two class plays to be given by the graduates. The second, "A Pair of Sixes," will be presented at the Majestic Theater tonight and the advance ticket sale assures another crowded house. This is the first Senior class to attempt two class plays during commencement week.

The plot for "Stop Thief" is laid in a room on the residence of William Carr in Providence, R. I., and interwoven in it are a series of complicated situations which develop

A. H. AHLBRAND DISCUSSES MANUFACTURE OF BUGGIES

Interesting Paper Presented at the Weekly Meeting of the Seymour Rotary Club.

A. H. Ahlbrand, of the Ahlbrand Carriage Company, gave an interesting paper relative to the manufacture of buggies at the weekly meeting of the Seymour Rotary Club today. It was the first of a series of addresses pertaining to the activities of the members.

Mr. Ahlbrand gave a brief history of the buggy tracing its development from a two wheel cart as it was first known in Egypt centuries ago to the present type. He itemized the different materials used in a carriage manufacturing plant to show that many countries contribute something to the finished product. Approximately 300,000 buggies have been manufactured in the United States annually for the last three years, he said.

Mr. Ahlbrand dwelt at some length upon the automobile and gasoline engine as competitors to "old Dohbin" and predicted that many industries which now use motor cars and trucks would in time return to horse drawn vehicles as a matter of saving. The growing use of the automobile, he thought, was due very largely to the extensive advertising of motor car companies.

T. S. Blish, president, who presided, announced that Ralph Martin and Don A. Bollinger had been appointed musical directors for the year. Joe H. Andrews was appointed sergeant at arms for the year.

The Rotary Club at the suggestion of Frank J. Voss agreed to furnish automobiles to take the veterans and W. R. C. members to the cemetery for the Memorial Day observance.

REPORTS FILED AT ANNUAL MEETING

Stockholders and Directors of Riverview Cemetery Association Hold Session Monday.

OFFICERS ARE RE-ELECTED

Financial Report Shows that Association Holds Securities to the Amount of $15,636.

Approval of the program that has been followed by the directors of the Riverview Cemetery Association was voted by the stockholders at the annual meeting Monday night. Reports showed that he grounds have been improved and that much other work of a permanent nature has been made during the last year. The Association is on a sound financial basis, the statement of the treasurer revealed.

Three new stockholders were elected last night to fill the vacancies caused by the deaths of A. J. Pellens, B. F. Schneek and Dr. M. F. Gerrish. The new stockholders are Thomas M. Honan, Oscar E. Carter and J. F. Tunley. Following the stockholders' meeting the directors

JURY GIVES FRED BEARD JUDGMENT FOR ONE DOLLAR

Verdict is Reached Monday Night After a Deliberation of About Five Hours.

After deliberating for about five hours the jury which heard the case of Fred Beard against Ralph Thompson, for damages, returned a verdict finding for the plaintiff and gave him a judgment of $1. The case was completed in circuit court Monday afternoon about 5 o'clock and the verdict was returned by the jury about 10 o'clock.

The case was tried before a jury at the February term of Jackson circuit court at which time the jury was unable to agree on a verdict. The case developed over an automobile accident which occurred near Indianapolis several months ago. Montgomery & Montgomery represented the plaintiff and S. A. Barnes was the attorney for the defendant.

Subscription Prices

Beginning Monday, May 31, the subscription price of the Seymour daily papers delivered by carrier will be fifteen cents per week.

Both Seymour papers have been tried for months to continue the old price of ten cents per week and have been able to do so only by using paper bought last year before prices made such tremendous advances.

The market price today for white paper is between three and four times what it was eight months ago and it is impossible to continue at the old price any longer.

There is no indication of any fall in paper prices, but rather of a further advance. Therefore, we are compelled to advance the price beginning next Monday to fifteen cents per week

PUBLIC ASKED TO AID COMMISSION

Utility Body Appeals to People of Indiana to Assist in Overcoming Fuel Shortage.

LOADED COAL CARS ON SIDINGS

Corps of Inspectors Started on Tour of State to Locate Supplies Badly Needed.

By United Press. Indianapolis, May 25.—The public service commission today appealed to the people of Indiana to help it overcome the coal car and fuel shortage in the state. John W. McCordle, vice-chairman of the commission, asked that the public inform the commission of instances where quantities of coal have been side-tracked for some time.

At the same time the commission started a corps of inspectors on a tour of the state to locate such supplies. They will travel all railroads and maintain a careful watch. This action followed receipt of information by the commission that thirty carloads of coal have been on a side track near Kingsland, a small town in Wells county, for two weeks.

A conference between the commissioners, superintendents of coal carrying railroads and representative coal mine operators failed to bring forth a plan for immediate relief.

With public utilities and state institutions facing suspension, it developed during the conference that railroads are commandeering from two-thirds to three-fourths of the decreased production from the Indiana fields. The utilities receive the remainder. The railroad men promised, however, that they will make every effort to keep the utilities and state institutions going by giving railroad fuel in urgent cases.

The railroad superintendents asked the commission to wait a week before requesting the interstate commerce commission to establish priority regulations, asserting that it would be useless for the state body to undertake this. The I. C. C. is acting immediately to stop the use of coal cars for other products, it developed.

RELIEF FROM FREIGHT CAR SHORTAGE IN SIGHT

Railroad Executives Hold Conference To Determine Ways To Overcome Difficulties.

By United Press. Chicago, May 25—Relief from the present freight car shortage today was expected to follow a conference of a committee of three, appointed by railroad executives of the mid west to determine radical steps to end the transportation tie up.

The committee will hold conferences today and report Thursday to the rail managers their plans for ending the car shortage.

The first string of empty cars began arriving here last night. They will be moved to the grain belt. Continuous trains of empty freight cars were expected for the next week.

The U. S. railroad labor board, hearing demands of rail workers for increases totalling one billion dollars annually will complete its session this week, board members expected today.

LIBERTY LEAGUE AIDING EDWARDS

Campaign Manager is Witness Before Senate Committee Investigating Expenditures.

HOOVER'S "STIMULATING" FUND

J. F. Lucey Described Methods Used by California Man in Effort to Secure Nomination.

By United Press. Washington, May 25—A total of $12,900 has been raised for the candidacy of Governor Edward I. Edwards, of New Jersey, Democrat, Walter Vicks testified before the senate campaign expenditures committee today.

The National Personal Liberty League has also aided the governor's campaign, Vicks stated. The League membership is composed very largely of Republicans, Vicks said. After Vicks stated that no special interests of any kind had contributed or had pledged to aid Edwards' candidacy, Senator Reed said:

"I'm going to ask you bluntly, have you any agreement with the liquor interests where by there are to finance Governor Edwards campaign?"

"Unequivocally no," said Vicks. "We have no connection with them."

The campaign of Senator Owen, Oklahoma, Democrat, is being conducted very largely by friends in Oklahoma, James Bellar testified. They raised $7,810 mostly in small contributions, they said, and presented a list of contributors, many of whom gave from $1 to $5.

J. F. Lucey, Herbert Hoover's campaign manager was called next. Hoover's California friends gathered and spent the campaign fund in that state and Lucey had no knowledge of it, he said. Replying to Senator Reed Lucey said his work was principally stimulating Hoover's candidacy.

"Do you stimulate any of them with cash?" asked Reed.

"No," replied Lucey.

Lucey showed an account showing a deficit of $4,147 in Hoover's campaign fund. Contributions totaled $62,850 none of them being from corporations, the account showed. Sale of pamphlets and interest on deposits brought the total to $62,185.76.

Lucey describing the methods used in the Hoover campaign said the work was confined to the Hoover clubs.

Senator Reed, Hoover's ancient enemy, prodded Lucey about the details of the Hoover publicity campaign. Lucey he could not enlighten the committee about the report that Hoover had purchased newspapers from Sacramento to Washington, D. C. The plan to publish a Hoover newspaper in Chicago during convention week has been abandoned, he said.

SAYS CARRANZA KILLED HIMSELF

Answer Made by Herrero, Accused of Assassinating the Former Mexican President.

HOOVER'S "STIMULATING" FUND

Revolutionary Chieftain Declares That Clear Case of Treachery Has Been Proved.

By United Press. Mexico City, May 25.—General Obregon, commander of revolutionary forces, today commanded Herrero to surrender and answer to a charge of assassinating Carranza, former president of the republic. Obregon declared a clear case of treachery had been proved.

The order followed Herrero's offer to come to Mexico City if given assurance of security and give evidence which he claimed would prove that Carranza died at his own hand. Herrero in a telegram to General Gonzales, denied that he or his troops murdered the former president, according to a report in a newspaper here. He declared Carranza had committed suicide rather than suffer the dishonor of becoming a fugitive.

Adolfo De La Huerta, former governor of the state of Sonora, was declared provisional president of Mexico last night.

General Juan Barragan, Carranza's chief of staff, General Uruquiza, former minister of war, General Bonillas, Aguirre Berlanga, prime minister under Carranza, Pauline Fontes, former director general of railroads and General Murguia, who were made prisoners by the revolutionaries when they arrived here yesterday with the body of their former chief are still under arrest.

Surrounded by paupers graves marked only by tiny heaps of stones of simple wooden crosses, in the midst of a clump of evergreen trees on a knoll overlooking the valley in which nestles the city of Mexico, the body of Venustiano Carranza, murdered president of Mexico was buried late yesterday.

To the eastward rises the snow capped peak of the famous volcano Popocatepetl. The mound covering the simple casket is no different from those of scores of others.

Not in years has Mexico City seen such crowds as those which choked the streets during Carranza's burial. They were of all classes sombered peons mingling with silk hatted men of wealth and position and thousands of women and children elbowing their way to positions where they could better view the procession.

The mob gathered in the Carranza residence and in approaching streets long before four p. m. the hour when the funeral services in the home were to be held. The services were very brief and were attended only intimate friends and few officials.

When the ceremony was over the pall bearers, carrying casket on their shoulders marched a block to the eastward from the house toward Paseo De La Reforma. The famous boulevard was so jammed with people that the bearers of the coffin were forced to thrust the crowds aside in order to gain passage.

There was no hearse. A street car bore the body and its attendants to the cemetery, after the foot procession had gone six blocks to the car line.

Only the daughters of Carranza and a few relatives followed the street car in carriages but they were lost in the crowds which walked silently behind the body of their slain leader three miles to the Dolores cemetery where hundreds of others came had gathered. Motor trucks were employed to carry the scores of wreaths to the burial spot, but on arrival it was found to small to accommodate all of the floral tributes. Carranza had chosen to be buried in the third class section reserved for the very poor.

Owing to the lack of organization the immense crowd pushed up to the edge of the grave and for some time

TRANSPORTATION.

Transportation conditions have never been in as serious a plight as they are at the present time. The railroads are not only passing through a reconstruction period but are attempting to readjust their business following the collapse of federal management. During the time that the government had control of the properties no additional rolling stock was purchased, repairs were held down to a minimum necessity and practically no construction or extension work was done. THE WHOLE WORLD knows and reveres the name of the master inventor. History will honor him for his colossal achievements in the field of electricity. No less in importance, however, is his contribution to the realm of music by which he has made all mankind happier. Just as he saw the vision of a sunlit night, so did he conceive the idea of music recreated. Just as he strove to evolve from the faint, flickering candle the radiant brilliance of the incandescent lamp, so did he strive to develop the mere mechanical approximation of tone into the very recreation of the living music. Through his great genius he has reached both goals. He has given light to mankind. He has made genuine music a universal possession. You should therefore hear "The New Edison".

program under which the railroads were operated was halted. The government handed back the roads to their original owners in a run down condition.

The surrender of federal control came at a time when transportation of freight was extremely heavy. The companies undertook to handle the freight with its limited equipment and soon the inevitable came. The cars which were on the verge of collapse were placed in the shops for repairs. Few orders had been given for new cars and those had been placed in anticipation of the return of the properties to private management could not be filled promptly. In addition to these difficulties the railroads face an enormous loss. Under federal control the management could call upon the public treasury for funds to meet the deficits, but the private owners must look elsewhere for needed capital.

One thing is agreed and that is that the railroads must be placed on a sound financial and efficient basis immediately. Everyone depends directly or indirectly upon the railroads. The transportation lines are the arteries of commercial and industrial America. If they fail the whole network of industries in this country will suffer. Railroad management ought to be given permanency and security. The transportation business is too vital to the country to permit it to become the object of economic experiments. Successful management depends upon a successful program of construction and improvement that will not be interfered with or molested so long as public interests are safeguarded.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

SCOUTING'S SECOND DECADE

Colin H. Livingstone, president of the Boy Scouts of America, gives them this message at the start of the second decade of scouting in the United States:

"A fellowship of nearly 500,000 boys and leaders drawn by a common bond at the same hour for the noble purpose of renewing their second oath is the most significant patriotic act of the times.

"A tenth birthday is always a milestone. We are proud of the great things already accomplished, but we must not rest content with the things we have done. The future is our opportunity.

"First of all, fellow scouts, let us celebrate our tenth birthday by more intensive scouting. Tenderfoot, on to second class! Second-class scout, on to first class! First-class, on to the merit badges, and then through Life, Star, Eagle! By such progress you will serve yourself, your fellows, your country!

"Get in more and more outdoor work. Outdoor scouting is real scouting. Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness under open skies is every scout's birthright.

"At this significant moment in our history we should each and all determine to make the good turn habit more and more a part of our lives, for without the good turn spirit in our hearts and the good turn practice in every day living, all the rest of scouting is of little avail.

"For God and country, and the service of man, carry on!"

SCOUTS HIKE 225 MILES.

A hike that last 14 days over an estimated distance of 225 miles and included the climbing of Mount Constance and an adventure with a bear was enjoyed by three Seattle boys.

The hikers were Phil Keeler, age fifteen; Forest Crosby, age sixteen, and his brother, Harold, age eighteen. Leaving Seattle the boys went to Brinnon, from which point they made their way to the head waters of the Dosewallips river, a distance of 40 miles. They then hiked over Hayetrail for 15 miles and then up the Elwha river for the same distance.

While on the Dosewallips trail the boys took time to climb Mount Constance, making the ascent in five and one-half hours.

On the Elwha trail they met a big black mother bear and her cub. Instead of making for the boys the mother ran, while the cub sought refuge in the branches of a tree 50 feet from the ground. The boys contented themselves with photographing the cub and went on.

SEAT OF SCOUT BROTHERHOOD.

The head of the boy scouts in Switzerland, Maurice Och, is in this country to suggest that the worldwide boy scout brotherhood have its headquarters at Geneva, as a sort of Junior League of Nations. Mr. Och says:

"I am here to suggest an international bureau, located at Geneva, which would serve as a bond between all the scouts of the world. The center of the Red Cross organizations of the allies is at Geneva, and that will also be the seat of the proposed League of Nations.

"The international scout bureau might take upon itself the organizing of an international encampment in a different country each year.

"I wish to express my admiration for your splendid American organization. I happened to meet several of your scouts and I was impressed by their good appearance. These young boys have a frank and loyal expression."

"UNCLE DAN" HITS THE TRAIL.

One very slippery day this winter as Daniel Carter Beard, the veteran national commissioner of over 375,000 Boy Scouts of America, was confidently swinging along with an Indian stride across the ice, three sisters who lived in the convent in the neighborhood approached.

Everybody in Flushing knows Dan Beard, and one of them jokingly quoted, "The wicked stand in slippery places!" Just then "Uncle Dan" went down with a slam that would have laid up any other septuagenarian.

From the refuge of the sidewalk he remarked, "They may, but I don't know how in blazes they do it."

ONE SCOUT UPHELD THE LAW.

Out of the chaos of rioting in Omaha emerged one steady influence, taking independent action for law and order. It was a boy scout trained as a level-headed future citizen—Scout Verne Joseph, twelve years of age. He took post at the busiest street intersection, directing the traffic.

Among those under arrest were many boys, one of them twelve years of age.

SHE NOW SLEEPS LIKE WELL CHILD WHOLE OF NIGHT

Indianapolis Woman Suffering From Insomnia Finds Relief After Taking Trutona.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 24—"I simply can not find words to express thankfulness for the relief Trutona has given me, and I am telling all of my friends about it," said Mrs. Mary Mahoney, a well-known Indianapolis woman of 109 Kentucky Avenue, recently. Mrs. Mahoney then continued thusly:

"For several years I have been taking every kind of medicine in an effort to get relief from constipation, nervousness and insomnia. For the past six months I could hardly sleep at all. Although I'd go to bed at nine o'clock it would often be early morning before I'd fall asleep."

"I have always been bothered with constipation more or less, until I began using Trutona. I've been taking Trutona for about two weeks now, and the result is that I sleep the whole night long like a well child. I'm not a bit nervous any more and my bowels are as regular as clock-work."

"I've taken a barrel of different medicines but Trutona is the only one that ever helped me. I want every one troubled as I was, to try Trutona for I know it will help them as it did me."

Trutona's healthful action reaches every portion of the body, and performs its work faithfully and efficiently. Trutona rebuilds diseased nerves and tissues, creates a healthful appetite, and assists in the assimilation and digestion of the food. Trutona is now being introduced and explained in Seymour at W. L. Pedermann's Drug Store.

Wonderful Program in Store for Movie Fans at Princess Theatre Tomorrow and Thursday.

From all accounts the magnitude of this super-spectacle is the most staggering and startling achievement Mr. Griffith has thus far brought into being, with more than 125,000 men and women in one scene of splendor that shows all the color, life and abandonment of a bacchanalian feast. The cast of players, too, is typical of a Griffith company, including such established favorites as Constance Talmadge, George Fawcett, Mildred Harris (Mrs. Charles Chaplin), Tully Marshall, Pauline Stark, Seena Owen, Alma Rubens, Kate Bruce, Alfred Paget and Elmo Lincoln. As an added attraction, Madah, Egyptian Danceuse will appear in person Matinee and Night in a series of Interpretive Dances.

CASE BEING TRIED.

Reason A. Wright vs. Mary Henderson, et al. to Quiet Title.

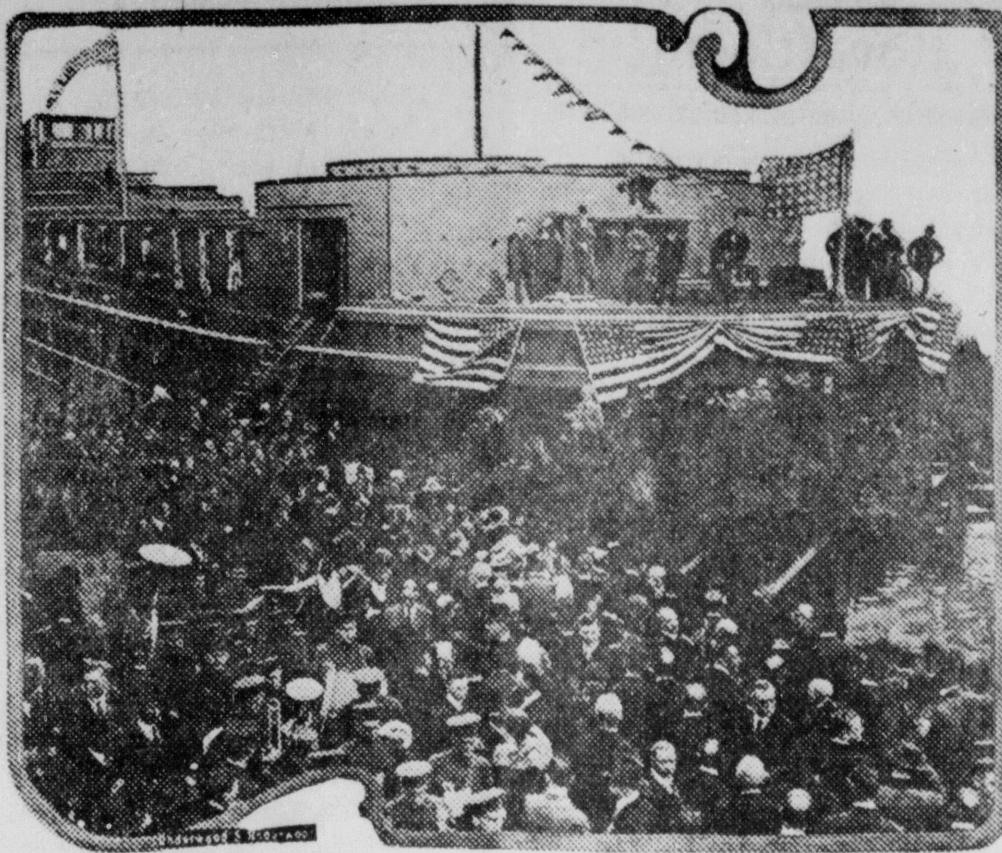

The case of Reason A. Wright vs. Mary Henderson, et al. Mandamus, quiet title and right of way, is on trial in the Jackson circuit court today. A number of witnesses were called to Brownstown to testify in the case from Carr township. The case will be completed late this afternoon.

NEW TASTELESS CASTOR OIL IS EASY TO TAKE

Strength and Purity Remain the Same, but All Unpleasant Taste is Removed.

A remarkable process, perfected by the chemists of Spencer Kellogg & Sons, Inc., has resulted in a great improvement in castor oil, the reliable old family remedy. This new tasteless castor oil has the same strength and purity as the old-fashioned kind. Nothing has been removed but the taste. Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil is precisely what the name says—absolutely tasteless. Think what this means to mothers and their children! When the Doctor says, "Give them castor oil," there need no longer be any trouble. Children need never know they are taking castor oil. Grown-ups will also appreciate the difference between Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil and the old-fashioned nauseating kind. Insist on Kellogg's if you want a really tasteless castor oil. At all good druggists. Two sizes, 35c and 65c. (Advt.)

Revival of Mississippi Traffic

Revival of traffic on the Mississippi river on a large scale is not very far distant, judging by the recent launching, in one day, of two self-propelled steam barges, constructed for the United States government at a cost of $500,000 each. This is a scene at the shipyard in St. Louis during the christening of the Birmingham.

HOME SERVICE HELPS ARMY TO SAVE HOURS

NEW METHOD OF FINANCING WELFARE WORK ENABLES SALVATIONISTS TO USE ENERGIES ELSEWHERE.

MONEY RAISED IN TEN DAYS

Indianapolis. — (Special) — During the last year more than 5,750,000 hours were salvaged by the Salvation Army in the United States and put into profitable use.

The organization which for so long has been saving health, life, materials and souls has added to its list of conservation exploits the saving of nearly 16,000 hours a day. All of which are being used for the relief of suffering and the spreading of happiness and comfort among the crippled, the sick and the penniless.

This conservation of time and the resultant increased efficiency in the work of the Salvationists among the poor and needy was made possible through the inauguration of the plan of financing the Salvation Army through the annual Home Service Appeals. The 1920 appeal for the Salvation Army in Indiana is now in progress and workers are in the field in nearly every county in the state raising Indiana's quota of $452,000.

Formerly the Salvation Army workers, especially the women and girls were required to spend the greater part of their time passing the tambourines in public places and appealing for contributions to keep the Army going. Today this wasteful system has been relegated and the money for the entire year's program is raised in the ten-day appeal, with ministers, business men, club women, members of the American Legion and others volunteering to do the work. Thus the Salvationists are enabled to devote their energies to their relief work.

FOR HOME SERVICE.

Many Indiana Counties Raise Quota of $452,000 Fund for Salvation Army.

Indianapolis, Ind. (Special) — Several Indiana counties have already raised their quota in the Salvation Army Home Service Fund. It was announced here by Major Arthur R. Robinson, state chairman, and many others are expected to successfully conclude their canvasses by the end of the week.

Union county was the first to produce its share of the state fund. This was done through an appropriation of $339 from the county's war chest. The American Legion recommended that the war chest make the appropriation. Hammond has oversubscribed its share by $1,000. Other counties which have completed their enrollments are Allen, LaPorte, Montgomery, Jennings, Wayne and Steuben.

BACKS RELIEF WORK.

Many Prominent Hoosiers Endorse 1920 Home Service Appeal by Salvation Army.

Indianapolis, Ind. — (Special) — Many prominent Hoosiers have endorsed the 1920 Home Service Appeal, now in progress in Indiana to raise funds for the Salvation Army's Home Service and Social Welfare work. The state quota is $452,000.

Among those who are supporting the appeal are Albert J. Beveridge, Samuel L. Ralston, former governor; Vice-President Thomas Marshall, Raymond S. Springer, commander of the Indiana department of the American Legion, and Carleton B. McCulloch, Democratic nominee for governor.

Decrease in Cut Worms.

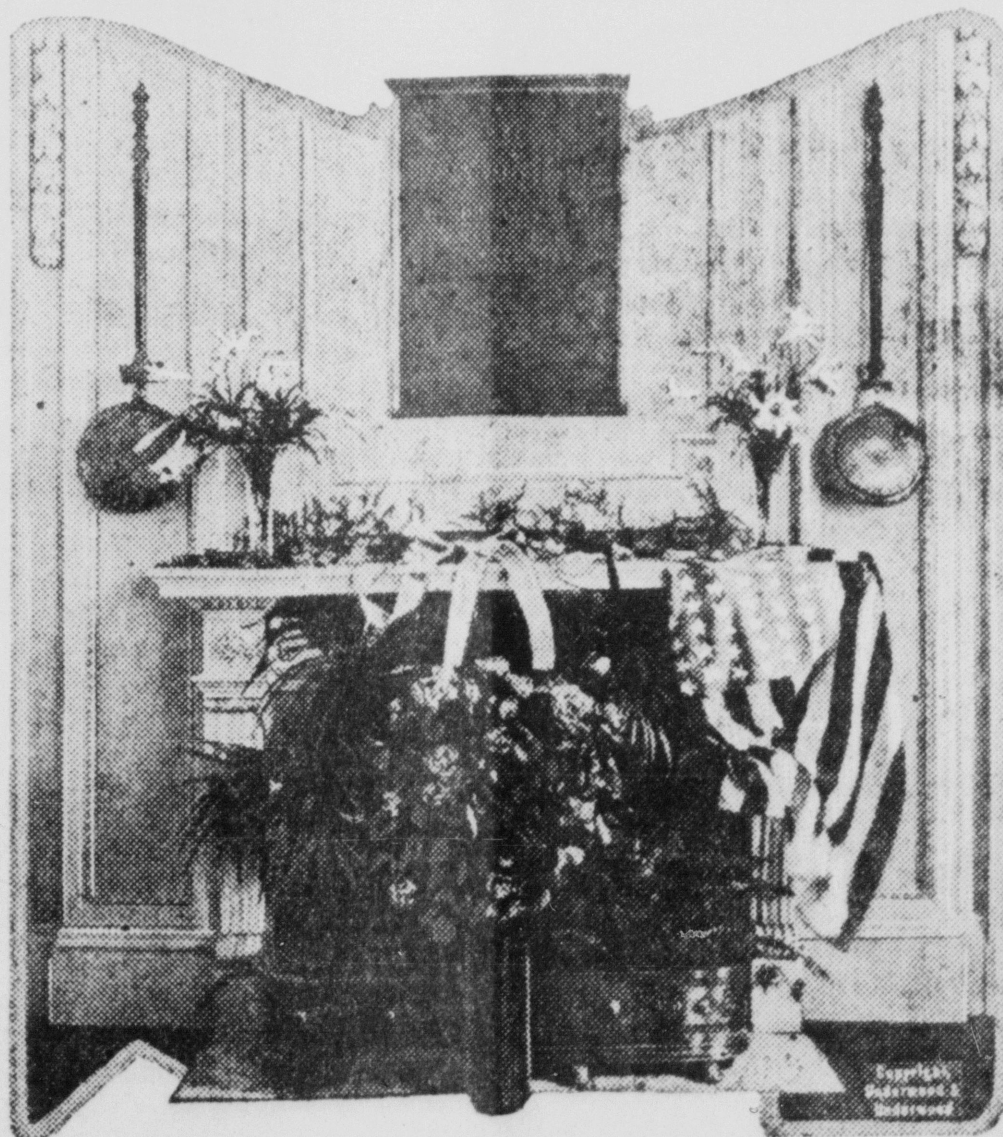

By United Press. Indianapolis, May 25.—There are fewer cutworms this year than usual, according to Frank N. Wallace, state entomologist under the state conservation department.

Wallace accounts for the noticeable decrease by the destruction of the worms by robins and repeated cultivation of gardens.

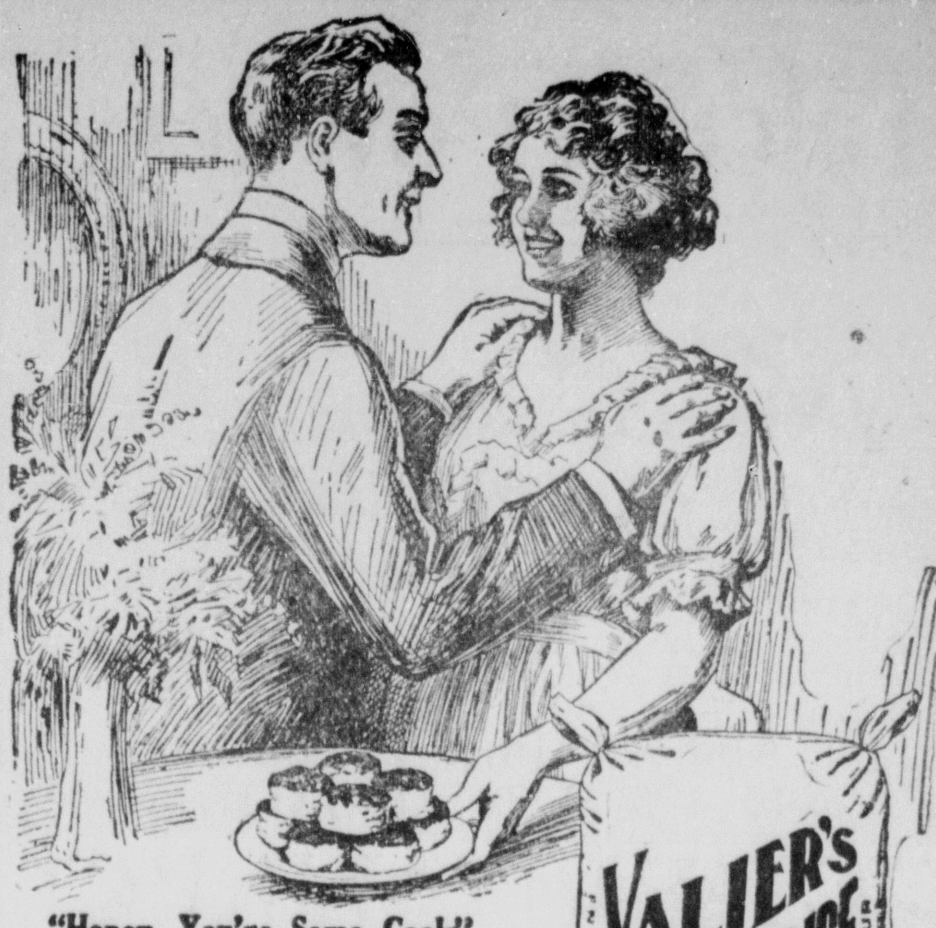

Bert Ulm has returned from a week end visit in Terre Haute.

FIVE SEEKING HONOR AS STATE G. A. R. COMMANDER

Annual State Encampment is Held at Bloomington—1,200 in Attendance.

By United Press.

Bloomington, Ind., May 25.—Five candidates were in the field for the office of state commander of the G. A. R. as 1,200 war veterans gathered here today for their forty-first annual state encampment.

All auxiliary organizations, including the Women's Relief Corps, Ladies of the G. A. R., Sons of Veterans, and Daughters of Veterans swelled the attendance to more than three thousand.

The war department through the reserve officers' training corps at Indiana University erected a number of tents on the campus for the use of the veterans, many of whom have expressed a preference for wall tents to the most expensive hotel room in the city.

A drum corps composed of three fifers and two drummers, will be a feature of the encampment which will continue through Thursday.

A reception for the veterans and members of the auxiliary organizations will be held tonight. The grand parade is scheduled for Thursday afternoon.

Miss Ruby Judd visited relatives in Hayden Monday night.

SOCIAL EVENTS

TECKEMEYER—BACON.

In the First Methodist church this morning at nine thirty o'clock was celebrated the wedding of Miss Mary Eleanor Teckemeyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Teckemeyer, 306 West Fourth street, to Frederick Durland Bacon. The impressive double ring ceremony of the Methodist Episcopal church was read by the Rev. Charles W. Whitman, church pastor.

The wedding ceremony was witnessed by about one hundred and fifty invited guests. Before the bridal party entered, a musical program was given by Mrs. R. J. Sanders, organ, and Miss Frieda Aufderheide, violin. The numbers given were "Because," "At Dawning," and "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice."

The rostrum was a bank of flowers and greenery. To the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, the bride entered with her sister, Miss Willa Teckemeyer, as bridesmaid. They were met at the altar by the groom and Olen Rippitoe, of Connersville, best man, who entered through a side aisle. During the ceremony, Mrs. Sanders softly played "Sublime Sweet Evening Star," Wagner.

As the recessional, Mrs. Sanders played "Wedding Festival," Stark. The bride wore an attractive gown of white silk net, with a large picture hat to match. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. The bridesmaid wore pink organdie trimmed with white and an organdie hat to match and carried an arm bouquet of Mrs. Aaron Ward roses.

Immediately after the ceremony an elaborate wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. The color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the decorations consisting of flowers. Miniature hand painted cupid place cards marked the covers for twenty guests. A feature of the decorations were small gas balloons fastened to the back of the chairs with pink and white ribbons. A three course breakfast was served. The ices were in moulds of miniature cupids. Those who attended included Miss Helen Siener, Miss Helen Lange, North Vernon, Miss Agnes Pedigo, New Albany, Miss Margaret Lander, Miss Rachel Lander, Jeffersonville, Tom O'Donnell, New Albany, Olen Rippitoe, Connersville, Mrs. W. A. Ritter, Terre Haute, Mrs. L. C. Bacon, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. Hodapp, Miss Frieda Aufderheide, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Teckemeyer, Misses Frances, Pearl and Willa Teckemeyer and Herod Stants.

Mr. and Mrs. Bacon left at noon for a motor trip through Kentucky and will then go to Evansville, where they will reside on Upper First street. Until a short time ago the bride was employed as auditor with the Southern Indiana Telephone and Telegraph Company. She is a popular young lady and has been actively identified with church work. She is a graduate of the local high school and also of the Seymour Business College and is a talented violinist.

Mr. Bacon, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Bacon, 118 North Mill street, was graduated from the local high school and from DePauw University. He served as a lieutenant with the American Expeditionary Forces for several months. At present he is connected with the Gibson Automobile Company, of Indianapolis, and his headquarters are in Evansville.

UP AND DOING CLASS.

The Up and Doing Class of the Central Christian church will meet Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Nellie Otto, corner Fifth and Pine streets. The hostesses are Mrs. Otto, Mrs. Nora Shannon, and Mrs. Mae Kern.

Mrs. Otto will have charge of the devotions and Mrs. Harry Bobb and Miss Myrtle Huntington will give papers on "Echoes of the Convention." They attended the state convention of Christian churches held last week at Vincennes.

SUNDAY GUESTS.

Miss Anna Zimmerman entertained a number of guests, Sunday at her home in Redding township. Elaborate meals were served at noon and in the evening.

MANAGER BECKER GETTING LINE ON GOOD PLAYERS

Effort Being Made to Organize Baseball Club in Time for Game Here on June 6.

Louis H. Becker, manager of the Seymour baseball club, is getting a line on a number of good players in Jackson county who may be given an opportunity to join the local team if they are needed. Mr. Becker will go to Hayden Sunday to watch a game there. The Hayden team is said to have some exceptionally good players.

"My intention is to use Seymour boys for the local team if possible," said Mr. Becker. "But, if we find that outsiders are needed then we want to be in a position to know where we can get them. I have many applications from players in different parts of the state and I am sure no difficulty will be experienced in getting a strong team together."

Mr. Becker said that an effort is being made to organize the team for the first game on June 6. Work on the diamonds will begin this week.

We will have on sale tomorrow—Cuban Pineapples and Tennessee Aroma Strawberries. Price Confectionery.

RAILROAD HEADS PRESENT CLAIMS

Samuel Rea, President of Pennsylvania Lines, Testifies Before Commerce Commission.

By United Press.
Washington, May 25—President Samuel Rea of the Pennsylvania Lines, went on the stand here today before the interstate commerce commission to urge increased freight rates which will give the roads additional revenue of $1,017,000,000 a year.

G. M. Schriver, vice-president of the Baltimore & Ohio, testified after Rea. Heads of all the principal roads are listed as witnesses. Heads of the shippers' organizations will follow the executives. Shippers are protesting increased rates.

Without higher rates the roads cannot pay six per cent. on their securities, the executives contended. Shippers complain that the roads should not be permitted to figure the six per cent. on their valuation which is in the neighborhood of $20,000,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Phillips and Mrs. William Phillips of Seymour, spent Sunday in this city with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barnaby, Columbus Ledger.

SEVENTH ANNUAL ART EXHIBIT OPENED TODAY

Between Fifty and Sixty Canvases Have Been Hung—Open Afternoon and Evenings.

The seventh annual exhibit of the Seymour Art League opened at the Shields high school building today. Between fifty and sixty canvases have been hung and according to those who have seen the display it is the finest offered by the local Art League.

The exhibit, as in the past, will be open without charge to the public each afternoon and evening and on Sunday afternoon until June 10. All of the school children in the city will be taken to the Shields building during this week to view the paintings. All of the canvases on exhibit are the work of members of the Brown County Colony of Artists. The public is cordially invited to attend.

NO ARRESTS MADE

Many Unfounded Rumors Circulated In The City.

No arrests on the eighty-seven indictments returned by the grand jury last Wednesday had been made late today. The warrants are in the hands of H. L. McCord, county sheriff, who is exceptionally busy with other court work at present and as yet has not started making arrests. All kinds of rumors are afloat in this city. It was reported this afternoon that some local persons had gone to Brownstown and given themselves up and had paid fines for gambling. According to Sheriff McCord, there is nothing to the rumor and no arrests have been made so far.

Miss Lillian Robertson, Brownstown, was in the city this morning enroute home from a visit with Mrs. Claire Pruden, of Cortland.

CLASS PLAY GIVEN BEFORE CROWD

humorously. Madge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carr, a part played by Bessie Abel, is to be married to James Clancy, played by Garrison Humes, and on the eve of her wedding day all the servants quit work. The household, of course, is thrown into a state of confusion. A new maid, Nell, played by Agnes Andrews, is employed, but she is an accomplice of Jack Doogan, a thief. Oren Lewis took the part of Doogan. Doogan came to the Carr home and then things began to disappear. At first the blame is placed on the prospective bride groom, but the entire family is troubled with absent mindedness and when the blame is shifted to Mr. Carr his wife assumes the responsibility to save his good name.

In the course of the play, the police are called and Doogan is recognized and a warrant for his arrest is issued. Jack, however, steals the warrant and thus interferes with the plans of the police. The situation goes from bad to worse until Jack holds up the police at the point of a revolver and announces that he is to adhere to the straight and narrow path in the future and took Nell as his bride. The play is completed with the marriage of Madge Carr and Clancy and Caroline Carr, another daughter, and Dr. Willoughby.

The play was well staged but the outstanding feature was the interpretation of the parts. The cast showed much native ability and all of the characters had a large part in making the production successful. Those in charge of the play are more than pleased with the presentation.

The members of the cast were: Joan Carr.... Mary Goodloe Billings

DEKALB COUNTY LEADS STATE POULTRY RECORDS

Investigation of the egg laying records being kept by DeKalb county farmers in co-operation with County Agent A. Z. Archart show that a flock of 104 White Leghorns owned by E. Christie stand at the top of more than 1,000 flocks on which similar records are kept in the state. The average number of eggs per hen in his flock for the past month was 22.9. Mr. Christie has kept consistent records for the past year and his name has appeared several times among the owners of the ten high producing flocks in the state. Mrs. John G. Misner, another owner of White Leghorns in the same county, turned in a record of 22.4 eggs per hen for the month. These reports are only examples of the interest that is being taken in poultry work by the people of the county reports the county agent. Every township in the county contains at least one farmer who is keeping egg production records and a number of culling demonstrations have already been planned for next fall.

Those keeping the records and any other interested people hold meetings from time to time when they discuss their problems and work out better methods. One hundred interested persons recently met at one of these meetings at which L. L. Jones of the Purdue University Poultry Extension Department, led a discussion in "Seasonal Problems of Rearing Chicks." A moving picture of the poultry work going on at Purdue and in other parts of the state was also shown at this meeting.

PIT STORED POTATOES MAKE FINE SEED

F. A. Bond, a farmer near Valparaiso, kept his seed potatoes in excellent condition throughout the winter and spring by use of outside dirt pit. In writing to the agricultural extension department of Purdue University with whom he co-operated in a demonstration Bond says, "May 1 and I just took my potatoes out this morning, after removing the straw. I had to use an ax to cut my way through the frozen dirt to them. I never saw finer potatoes at this time of the year. They are dry and crisp and not a sign of a sprout as yet, so the full strength will be in them when they do start. I am going to treat them next week."

Pit storage beats the cellar where the potatoes sprout early in the spring, sapping the vitality from them and causing a decrease in yield not to say anything about the trouble and work connected with moving them and rubbing off the sprouts.

CHEVROLET UNABLE TO ENTER SPEEDWAY CLASSIC

Injuries Sustained in Trial Run Will Prevent Him From Driving Machine.

Indianapolis, May 25—Arthur Chevrolet will not be able to compete for the $70,000 prize money in the 500-mile sweepstakes at the Indianapolis motor speedway next Monday. Injuries sustained when his Monroe crashed into Ren Thomas' Buick during a trial run will keep off the track, it was announced officially. The car is being repaired, however, and Little Bennie Hill of Pacific coast fame will take it around. He is the smallest driver entered, tipping the scales at 115 pounds and this lack of weight is considered greatly in his favor.

Ralph DePalma ran his Buick an average of ninety-five miles an hour in fifteen laps yesterday. Railbirds predict he will try to maintain the ninety-five mile gait throughout the race.

who were re-elected went into session and renamed the following officers:

President—Fred Able.
Vice-President—Charles Roeger.
Secretary-Treasurer—Clark B. Davis.

The board of directors is composed of the officers and Charles Kessler, N. M. Carlson, Harry Findley and J. Robert Blair.

Besides the newly elected stockholders others serving in that capacity are: the officers and directors, Benj. Carter, M. S. Blish, Theodore Groub, Charles H. Cordes, Dr. J. M. Shields, George Vehslage, Sr., A. P. Charles, W. F. Peter, J. H. Andrews, Harry Bobb, W. C. Bevins, W. A. Laupus, Jason Bottorff, J. G. Laupus and J. S. Mills.

An auditing committee composed of Harry Findley, J. S. Mills and C. H. Cordes reported that the books of the treasurer were found in good condition and that all the records were carefully kept. Several suggestions as to the matter of keeping the records were offered. The auditing committee verified the report of the treasurer reported that the association held bonds and other securities to the amount of $15,636 which had been purchased for $15,497.94.

The receipts from the sale of lots during the year amounted to $2,332.40 and that the opening and closing of graves netted $641.75. Interest on investments totaled $681.30 and that other receipts brought the total to $5,191.44.

The association had $1,180.59 on hand on April 30, 1920, the close of the fiscal year. An itemized report of expenditures was prepared and found correct. 125 burial permits were issued during the year.

During the year the directors have improved the driveways with macadam and a new section of lots was re-

WORKS HARD TO AVERT FLU EPIDEMIC

Government and City Health Officials Warn People to Keep Clean.

Stay Away from People with Coughs and Colds.

"Avoid crowds if you want to avoid influenza," says Association for Improving the Conditions of New York.

Keep your hands clean, drink plenty of fresh water; sleep with windows open; eat three uniform meals a day including a good breakfast.

People who have catarrh or frequent colds invite influenza, declares a prominent Kentucky druggist.

The membrane of the throat and nose is raw, sore and tender, and makes a lovely abiding place for germs to thrive and multiply.

He advises an inexpensive home-made remedy that will bring relief in less than a day and will stop all discharge and soothe and heal the inflamed membrane in a few days.

Thousands are making this beneficial remedy at home and anyone who has catarrh or a cold can do the same.

Pour three-quarters of an ounce of Mentholized Arcine into a pint bottle, then fill the bottle with water that has been boiled.

Gargle the throat as directed and snuff or spray the liquid into the nostrils twice daily. It's a simple way to get rid of cold and catarrh and keeps the nasal passage and throat clean and healthy.

Nearly all druggists dispense Mentholized Arcine in vials containing exactly three-quarters of an ounce, which is all you need to make a pint of this healthful medicine.

Answer Your Door-Bell!

Emerson said that if a man did something better than his neighbor, no matter what it was, the world would make a beaten path to his door.

But times have changed. Now-a-days the men who make the "better" things are "making paths" to your door.

Every time a newspaper comes a host of people are ringing your door-bell. Merchants and manufacturers are waiting on the doorstep to spread their goods at your feet for you to look at.

Don't let the opportunity that advertisements offer you slip by. No matter what you want, clothing, groceries, a fountain pen or a farm, you will find the "better" ones in the advertising columns.

The advertisements tell you where you can get what you want, when you want it.

CHAPTER XIII.

Fortunately for the situation which had so suddenly confronted him, Bryce Cardigan had Mr. Buck Ogilvy; and out of the experiences gained in other railroad-building enterprises the said Ogilvy, while startled, was not stunned by the suddenness and immensity of the order so casually given him by his youthful employer, for he had already devoted to the matter of that crossing the better part of the preceding night.

"Got to run a sandy on the mayor," Buck soliloquized as he walked rapidly uptown. "Now how shall I proceed to sneak up on that oily old cuss' blind side?"

Two blocks farther on Mr. Ogilvy paused and snapped his fingers vigorously. "Eureka!" he murmured. "I've got Poundstone by the tail on a down-hill haul. Is it a cinch? Well, I just guess I should tell a man!"

He hurried to the telephone building and put in a long-distance call for the San Francisco office of the Cardigan Redwood Lumber company. When the manager came on the line Ogilvy dictated to him a message which he instructed the manager to telegraph back to him at the Hotel Sequoia one hour later; this mysterious detail attended to, he continued on to the mayor's office in the city hall.

Mayor Poundstone's bushy eyebrows arched with interest when his secretary laid upon his desk the card of Mr. Buchanan Ogilvy, vice president and general manager of the Northern California. "Ah-h-h!" he breathed with an unpleasant resemblance to a bon vivant who sees before him his favorite vintage. "I have been expecting Mr. Ogilvy to call for quite a while. Show him in."

The visitor was accordingly admitted to the great man's presence and favored with an official handshake of great heartiness. "I've been hoping to have this pleasure for quite some time, Poundstone," Buck announced easily as he disposed of his hat and overcoat on an adjacent chair. Buck's alert blue eyes opened wide in sympathy with his genial mouth, to deluge Mayor Poundstone with a smile that was friendly, guileless, confidential and singularly delightful. Mr. Ogilvy was a man possessed of tremendous personal magnetism when he chose to exert it, and that smile was ever the opening gun of his magnetic bombardment, for it was a smile that always had the effect of making the observer desire to behold it again—of disarming suspicion and establishing confidence.

"Glad you did—mighty glad," the mayor cried heartily. "I have read your articles of incorporation, Mr. Ogilvy. You will recall that they were published in the Sequoia Sentinel. It strikes me—"

"Then you know exactly what we purpose doing, and any further explanation would be superfluous," Buck interrupted amiably, glad to dispose of the matter so promptly. Again he favored the mayor with his bright smile, and the latter, now fully convinced that here was a young man of vast enterprise whom it behooved him to receive in a whole-hearted and public-spirited manner, nodded vigorous approval.

"Well, that being the case, Mr. Ogilvy," he continued, "what can we Sequoians do to make you happy?"

"What Can We Sequoians Do to Make You Happy?"

"Why, to begin with, Mr. Poundstone, you might accept my solemn assurances that despite the skepticism which for some unknown reason appears to shroud our enterprise in the minds of some people, we have incorporated a railroad company for the purpose of building a railroad. The only thing that can possibly interfere with the project will be the declaration of the city council to grant us a franchise to run our line through the city to tidewater. And I am glad to have your assurance that the city council will not drop a cold chisel in the cogs of the wheels of progress."

Mr. Poundstone had given no such assurance, but for some reason he did not feel equal to the task of contradicting this pleasant fellow. Ogilvy continued: "At the proper time we shall apply for the franchise. It will then be time enough to discuss it. In the meantime the N. C. O. plans a public dedicatory ceremony at the first breaking of ground, and I would be greatly honored, Mr. Mayor, if you would consent to turn the first shovel full of earth and deliver the address of welcome upon that occasion."

The mayor swelled like a Thanksgiving turkey. "The honor will be mine," he corrected his visitor.

"Thank you so much, sir. Well, that's another worry off my mind." With the tact of a prime minister Buck then spoke of the magic effect the building of such a line would have upon the growth of Sequoia. Sequoia, he felt convinced, was destined to become a city of at least a hundred thousand inhabitants; he rhapsodized over the progressive spirit of the community and with a wave of his hand studded the waters of Humboldt bay with the masts of the world's shipping. Suddenly he checked himself, glanced at his watch, apologized for consuming so much of His Honor's valuable time, expressed himself felicitated at knowing the Mayor, gracefully expressed his appreciation for the encouragement given his enterprise and departed.

Half an hour later the Mayor's telephone-bell rang. Buck Ogilvy was on the line. "I beg your pardon for bothering you with my affairs twice in the same day, Mr. Mayor," he announced deprecatingly, "but the fact is, a condition has just arisen which necessitates the immediate employment of an attorney. The job is not a very important one and almost any lawyer would do, but in view of the fact that we must, sooner or later, employ an attorney to look after our interests locally, it occurred to me that I might as well make the selection of a permanent attorney now. I am a stranger in this city Mr. Poundstone. Would it be imposing on your consideration if I asked you to recommend such a person?"

"Why, not at all, not at all! Delighted to help you, Mr. Ogilvy. Let me see now. Cadman & Banes, with offices in the Knights of Pythias Temple, would be just the people, although there is Rodney McKendrick, in the Chamber of Commerce building—a splendid fellow, Mr. Ogilvy, and most desirable. And if I may be pardoned a dash of paternal ego, there is my son Henry, Poundstone, Junior. While Henry is a young man, his career in the law has been most gratifying, although he hasn't had as broad an experience as the others I mentioned, and perhaps your choice had better lie between Cadman & Banes and Rodney McKendrick."

"Thank you a thousand times," Mr. Ogilvy murmured, and hung up. "We thought so, Buck, we thought so," he soliloquized. "Yes, Cadman & Banes or Rodney McKendrick may do, but Lord have mercy on the corporate soul of the N. C. O. if I fail to retain Henry Poundstone, Junior. What a wise plan it is to look up the relatives of a public official! Well! Forward, men, follow me—to Henry's office."

Henry Poundstone, Junior, proved to be the sole inhabitant of one rather bare office in the Cardigan block. Buck had fully resolved to give him a retainer of a thousand dollars, or even more, if he asked for it, but after one look at Henry he cut the appropriation to two hundred and fifty dollars. Young Mr. Poundstone was blonde and frail, with large round spectacles, rabbit teeth, and the swiftly receding chin of the terrapin. Moreover, he was in such a flutter of anticipation over the arrival of a client that Buck deduced two things—to wit, that the Mayor had telephoned Henry he was apt to have a client, and that as a result of this miracle, Henry was in no fit state to discuss the sordid subject of fees and retainers. Ergo, Mr. Ogilvy decided to obviate such discussion now or in the future. He handed Henry a check for two hundred and fifty dollars, which he wrote out on the spot, and with his bright winning smile remarked: "Now, Mr. Poundstone, we will proceed to business. That retainer isn't a large one, I admit, but neither is the job I have for you today. Later, if need of your services on a larger scale should develop, we shall of course expect to make a new arrangement whereby you will receive the customary retainer of all of our corporation attorneys. I trust that is satisfactory."

"Eminently so," gasped the young disciple of Blackstone. "Very well, then; let us proceed to business." Buck removed from a small leather bag a bale of legal-looking documents. "I have here," he announced, "agreements from landowners along the proposed right of way of the N. C. O. to give to that company, on demand, within one year from date, satisfactory deeds covering rights of way which are minutely described in the said agreements. I wish the deeds prepared for signing and recording at the earliest possible moment."

"You shall have them at this time to-morrow," Henry promised.

The head of Henry Poundstone, Junior, was held high for the first time since he had flung his modest shingle to the breezes of Sequoia six months before, and there was an unaccustomed gleam of importance in his pale eyes as he rushed into his father's office in the city hall.

"By jinks, Dad," he exclaimed. "I've hooked a fish at last—and he's a whopper. Read this," and he thrust a yellow telegraph-form under the Mayor's nose. The latter adjusted his glasses and read:

"Imperative building operations commence immediately. Local skepticism injurious and delays dangerous. We must show good faith to our New York friends. J. P. M. insists upon knowing promptly where we stand with Sequoia city council. See them immediately and secure temporary franchise, if possible, to enable us to cross Water street at B street and build out Front street. If your judgment indicates no hold-up on permanent franchise, commence active operations immediately upon acquisition of permanent franchise."

"HOCKLEY."

This telegram, as the Mayor observed, had been filed at San Francisco subsequent to Ogilvy's visit to him that afternoon.

"Ah-h-h!" breathed His Honor. "That accounts for his failure to bring the matter up at our interview. Upon his return to the hotel he found this telegram—and got busy at once. By Jupiter, this looks like business. Henry, how did you come into possession of this telegram?"

"It must have been mixed up in the documents Ogilvy left with me. I found it on my desk when I was sorting out the papers, and in my capacity of attorney for the N. C. O. I had no hesitancy in reading it."

"Well, I do declare! Wonder who Hockley is."

"Hockley doesn't matter," young Henry declared triumphantly, "although I'd bet a hat he's one of those heavy-weight Wall street fellows and one of J. P. M.'s vice-presidents, probably. J. P. M., of course, is the man behind."

Driving Ease in a

is Due to Special Steels

Many who drive a Maxwell prefer it to a larger car.

They like its nimbleness, its quickness in getting under way, its peculiar ability to thread its way through traffic, its rare driving ease.

One can drive it farther in a day with less fatigue than many cars much larger.

The reason is clear: its engine pulls no superfluous weight.

Not a single unnecessary pound burdens it.

Special steels in a Maxwell eliminate the useless weight—steels made to Maxwell's own formulae, which equal pound for pound those in any car built.

They have extra strength forged into them, and they provide lightness.

This is one reason why Maxwell has won public favor the world over as indicated by nearly 400,000 now in use. How marked the tendency today is recorded by a production of 100,000 for 1920.

"The Fall of Babylon"

A Purple Romance of Another Day

A Super-Spectacle Produced Personally by David Wark Griffith.

The story of a brilliant people who were dust when The Gentle Carpenter was born; who hungered for food and love and happiness—EVEN AS YOU AND I.

They built a marvelous city, Babylon the Mighty, with massive walls that only treachery could reduce.

A lover, the good Belshazzar, wore the legal robe, torn from him in death by the politicians, the schemers, who betrayed the city and enslaved a people that they might humiliate their Ruler—EVEN AS TODAY.

And a wild, lovable little Sweetheart from the Mountains, who adored the King and loved a singer, might have saved them all.

But there was laughter and wine and feasting, and romantic plans.

It is the story of Today as well as Yesterday.
